

Lessons for Achieving Health Equity Comparing Aotearoa/New Zealand and the United States

Marshall Chin, MD, MPH

Director, Chicago Center for Diabetes Translation Research
Richard Parrillo Family Professor of Healthcare Ethics
Department of Medicine, University of Chicago

Marshall H. Chin is a general internist with extensive experience improving the care of vulnerable patients with chronic disease. He is the Richard Parrillo Family Professor of Healthcare Ethics in the Department of Medicine at the University of Chicago; Director of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF) Reducing Health Care Disparities Through Payment and Delivery System Reform Program Office; Director of the Chicago Center for Diabetes Translation Research; and Associate Director of the MacLean Center for Clinical Medical Ethics at the University of Chicago. He is improving diabetes care and outcomes on the South Side of Chicago and leading the evaluation of a Commonwealth Fund project implementing the patient-centered medical home in 65 safety net clinics across five states. Dr. Chin is also investigating how to improve shared decision making between clinicians and LGBTQ racial/ethnic minority patients.

Georgia Center for
Diabetes Translation Research

Emory Global Diabetes
Research Center

October 18th from 3 – 4:00 pm
CNR 400 I
Rollins School of Public Health